

Anita Eccleston presents “Golden Hour”, and its sublime peace to live it

Amanda Costa · 4 days ago · 0 comments · 79 likes · 1 minute reading

A pleasant spring morning awaits you in “ Golden Hour” , the third single from the album Gala Gardens by the talented Anita Eccleston that enchants with a surprising instrumental sweetness, making us feel the freshness of the flower season.

The melody is incredibly gentle, starting a little more intense, and softening as it colors our vision and intoxicates the senses with good essences, aided, by the tones of piano, trumpet and other majestic pinches, in sublime perfection

Natural landscapes, built in harmony with the notes, drawing a scene, where we wake up, with the sun's rays coming through the window, and after a good coffee to wake up, we go out towards a beautiful flower garden, to create that invigorating feeling of peace and calm, which will help us to maintain spiritual balance in the turbulent hours of the day..., for a few minutes, our mind will clear and we will be connected with existence in its purest form, without worries or fear.

Golden Hour , a simple and passionate touch of comfort, to lighten the soul and not allow life's problems to darken its light.

Social networks

<https://anitaeccleston.com/>

<https://www.facebook.com/anitaecclestonjazz>

<https://www.instagram.com/anitatrumpet>

<https://twitter.com/AnitaEccleston>

<https://soundcloud.com/anitaeccleston>

<https://anitaeccleston.bandcamp.com>

<https://www.youtube.com/anitaecclestonjazz>

<https://tourbox.songkick.com/artists/3525326/calendar>

<https://open.spotify.com/artist/1U18faOrYC8IKJEY81DZnF?si=2XfuP3m3S0KfvzJJa5lOtw>

Photo credits: Tamea Burd

#inspiration

#instrumental

#Jazz Lo-Fi